THE PARISH OF ST. CLEMENT
An Inclusive and Caring Christian Community

April 2018

From Pastor Heather

JOY!

Last year the day after Easter one of my twins went for their Easter candy before breakfast. I reminded them that there is no candy before breakfast. The other qualified “except on Easter” they were allowed to eat a piece of candy before breakfast. Without a pause the twin reaching for the candy stated that it was still Easter season and proceeded to eat a piece. I realized together they had outsmarted me! Did you know that Easter is a season as well?

Often we pick up forms of devotion during Lent-extra prayers, extra readings, etc. We also have been beginning our services during Lent with the penitential order of joining in a prayer of confession first. Easter is often seen as the end of the fast when everyone goes back to eating chocolate or has finished the 40 days of devotional reading.

What if we all used the season of Easter as a time to celebrate joy? Not just in church as we return to proclaiming, “Alleluia,” but in the rest of our lives as well. I invite you to think about what brings you joy in life. Now take the time to schedule appointments for you to engage in joyous activities. For example, if nature brings you great joy, plan a time for a walk or a day to spend at your favorite beach. If friends or family bring you joy, take the time now to plan extra times with them- a meal, a special outing, or maybe just some extra Facetime if they live far away.

Pastoral Note: Choosing to find times to practice joy can be a spiritual discipline. It does not mean that depression or grief will go away or that you are wrong in feeling those feelings. It only means setting aside times when you participate in something that has brought joy in the past. Your family may still fight over politics and rain may come on the day you planned to spend at the beach. God is in the Good Friday moments as much as God is in the Easter celebrations!

The joy of the resurrection of Jesus is not to be limited to times when we are gathered together in worship. We are each called to celebrate that joy in our lives.

This Easter Season let us go out with joy and be led forth with peace!

~~ Blessings
Pastor Heather

DEADLINE FOR THE MAY ISSUE

Monday, April 16, 2018

Mark your calendars Saturday, September 8

Our bishop will be visiting St. Clement's to rededicate our sanctuary (after all of the building updates) and to celebrate our parish's 120th anniversary! Invite friends and family to come see the new roof, new paint, and the amazing people who are a part of St. Clement's!

Mahalo Nui Loa

- ♥ To the 45 individuals and families (as of 4/27/18) who donated to make the St. Clement's presence at the Washington DC March for Our Lives possible.
- ♥ To Jill Haworth and Kimberly Miyazawa Frank who took time off from work and families to accompany our youth to Washington DC for the March for Our Lives. And to the Chapman and McManus families who rearranged their Spring Break vacations so that their kids could attend the March in DC as well. Jill put together an itinerary that gave the students a meaningful and learning experience.

Note: See the pictures on pages 4, 5, and 10, and Jill's wrap-up on page 10.

Stewardship Minute

"The New Testament informs the reader that it is more blessed to give than to receive. I have found that among its other benefits, giving liberates the soul of the giver..."

Since time is the one immaterial object which we cannot influence- neither speed up nor slow down, add to nor diminish- it is an imponderably valuable gift. Each of us has a few minutes a day or a few hours a week which we could donate to an old folks' home or a children's hospital ward. The elderly whose pillows we plump or whose water pitchers we refill may or may not thank us for our gift, but the gift is upholding the foundation of the universe. The children to whom we read simple stories may or may not show gratitude, but each boon we give strengthens the pillars of the world."

Maya Angelou, Wouldn't Take Nothing For My Journey Now

Property Notes

Sexton Stan Ornellas reported on work that he'll be doing at the school during Spring Break -- replacing damaged ceiling tiles, replacing classroom countertops and sinks, and cleaning the playground sunshades.

Junior Warden Mary Carpenter updated the committee on the painting and roofing projects. The loose paint will be scraped and remaining paint encapsulated in compliance with EPA and OSHA regulations. Based on the proposals received, C & B Quality Painting LLC was awarded the contract to paint the Church building, which will include the lead abatement measures.

Pastor Heather announced plans for a blessing celebration of the renewed Church on September 8th with the Bishop in attendance.

There are pictures of the projects on page 8.

Project donors to date:

Nellie McLaughlin, Annette Jim, Ginny LaPierre, Mark Haworth, Bertha and Francis Lum

Reminder: Contributions to our capital improvement projects will be gratefully accepted. Some of the costs include $50 per gallon of paint, $100 per shingle sheet, and $30 per sheet of plywood (needed when it was discovered that there was no decking under the old roof).

Welcome Committee

On February 25, a group of interested and enthusiastic parishioners met to offer their thoughts on ways to revive and reinvigorate our Greeter & Welcome Program.

We discussed ways to reach out to and welcome new people into our St. Clement's community. Many great ideas were shared and we look forward to moving ahead and working on implementing them.

We invite all to join us in this and to share their thoughts and ideas. Our next meeting will be between services on Sunday, April 22 at 8:30 am in PH-1.

If you are unable to attend but have something that you would like to share, or if you are interested in being a greeter or working on the Welcome Committee, please contact:

March for Our Lives Honolulu, Hawaii

St. Clementians participated in the march (in a slight rain) in Honolulu that ended at the State Capitol. Pictured above are: Scott Suzuki-Jones, Mary Carpenter, Jane Anderson, Moria Amjadi, Beverly Amjadi-David, Pam McCoy, and Leslie Isaki. Photo at left by Arthur Buto; all other photos by Scott Suzuki-Jones.

March for Our Lives Washington, DC March 24, 2018

The St. Clement's youth participating in the march were: Samantha and Zoe Chapman, Griffin Frank, Tanner Haworth, Pamela Lino, and Jack and Meg McManus. Adult chaperones were: Matthew and Nicole Chapman, Kimberly Frank, and Jill Haworth. In addition, Nancy Tourk, former St. Clement's Youth Director who now lives in Washington, DC, joined them and served as one of the chaperones.

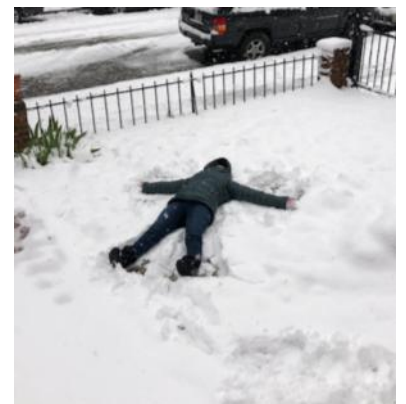

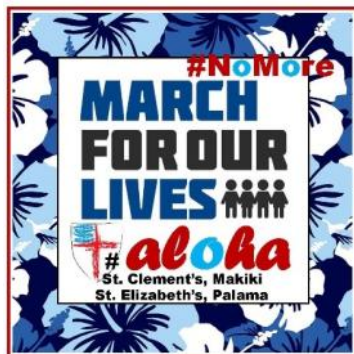

The youth attended an Interfaith Vigil service at the National Cathedral, met with some of our Hawaii delegation, toured some of the government buildings and museums, and took in some of the other sites in the nation's capital.

Above: Pamela and Tanner waited patiently at the airport, dressed for colder East Coast weather. Below: meanwhile, Griffin Frank had already arrived in DC and was making snow angels.

Above: Tanner Haworth and Pamela Lino from St. Clement's along with Naomi Yuen-Schat from St. Elizabeth's were interviewed on the Sunrise show for Hawaii News Now before they left Hawaii to participate in the march in Washington, DC. They show off the hoodies that Jill Haworth designed for our youth and chaperones. The design is shown to the right. Center right: Jill Haworth and Dorothy Jung (member of St. Elizabeth's) knitted fingerless gloves for the marchers; the designer who came up with the "Kitty" Hat for the women's march created the pattern with an eye for protection of the wearer.

The march started in front of the Capitol and stretched back about nine city blocks (almost 3/4 of a mile) with organizers estimating the crowd size in excess of 800,000.

Photos on the next page and page 10 were taken by Jill Haworth, Kimberly Miyazawa Frank, Matt Chapman, and the youth participants.

More from the March for Our Lives Washington, DC

Note: The following is from an email that Jill Haworth sent upon arriving home from the "March for Our Lives" in Washington D.C. The internet links at the end are to a news story that appeared on television the day of the march and to the interview that Tanner, Pamela, and Naomi had on Hawaii News Now Sunrise before leaving for Washington.. Be sure to watch them both. We can be very proud of our parish representatives.

It's been an amazing experience for our students that had the privilege of being at the March for Our Lives, 2018 in Washington, D.C.

The Interfaith Prayer Vigil at the National Cathedral and the March for Our Lives were inspiring; couple this energy with talking to people and legislators on our journey to the March has fired up our students in talking about what's next.

On the day of the March, we were hosted by St. Mark's Episcopal Church on Capitol Hill - a place to store our luggage and to warm up with lively conversation and refreshments before hitting the streets. Truly we were proud to carry our signs high with the motto based on a prayer we heard at the vigil: "Hearts be brave! Hearts be bold! March 4 Aloha!!" After the March, as we returned to St Mark's, the kids sought out individuals to share the kukui lei that was given to us to wear by St. Clement's. We were asked to wear the lei during the March and to share them afterward with other marchers. Volunteers registering people to vote (picture on pg 5), national guards, Capitol police, and volunteers at St Mark's were touched by the student's aloha. What a perfect way to enter into Holy Week!

After viewing the new Obama portraits at the National Portrait Gallery, Pam asked if we could see the 1813 American flag. Although we couldn't take pictures, we were just in awe. Pam commented that she loved being able to see the things that she has read about and the fact that our group of youths had become closer.

The students are so thankful for this once in a lifetime opportunity and the outpouring of love and support they have received throughout the planning and the entire trip. They are already talking about their new-found responsibility to continue their fight to make a change. We've been discussing voter registration in Hawaii and ways to change the apathy in voter turnout in our state... and homelessness. Meg has asked why there isn't a March for homelessness.

Hope.

I am so privileged and thankful, along with my fellow chaperones Kimberly Frank and Ajaol Siyami, to bear witness to so much love and hope.

Embrace Life!

Embrace life, remember the good times
you never know who will be at your doorstep or when they'll leave.
Life goes on, you have no control
sometimes we do, but not for long.
Embrace life, for the passion you feel deep down inside
for all the happiness it brings,
for life goes on, we all know
and sometimes we pretend to not know.

What happens today, may be gone tomorrow Embrace life.
Find the good things, leave the bad behind
Plan for tomorrow but take care you never know
Be strong, be strong.
Wrap your arms around a loved one let nourishing words pass through your lips, Embrace life.

Time fleets by when you're not looking or counting the passing hours of the night.
Find the beauty in the simple things you do, for it will all come back ten fold to you.

Do good work
Say your prayers each night
make new friends.
Find the time to take in the sweet blossoms of nature
Let the rain tickle your soul
Do your best Be strong.
Embrace life!
